

Promoting Jersey Day for Cystic Fibrosis Build4Life Appeal, in association with the Evening Echo, were sports stars; Frankie Sheahan, Joe Deane and George O'Callaghan with Jessica Rey, Sean Coughlan, James O'Shea and Darragh Quilligan

Launch of Cystic Fibrosis appeal

CALLING all students and business people, it's time to don your jersey in aid of Cork Cystic Fibrosis Appeal. A week-long awareness and fundraising campaign in aid of Cystic Fibrosis sufferers, will take place from April 21 to 26.

The appeal, due to be officially launched this evening, is being organised by Build4Life and supported by the Evening Echo. Build4Life are appealing to organisations, schools, businesses, clubs and individuals to hold a fundraising event or make a donation, during the week to raise vital funds for the cause.

One of the campaign highlights will be a jersey day on April 25. All are invited to take part.

Today some of Cork's top sportsmen threw their weight behind the campaign, including rugby star Frankie Sheahan, Cork City footballer George O'Callaghan and senior hurler Joe Deane.

Build4Life was founded by friends and family of Cystic Fibrosis patients in Cork and Kerry to Raise Awareness for Cystic Fibrosis in the region, and to raise more than €1million to develop Ireland's first dedicated CF treatment unit in Cork University Hospital.

For further information on Cystic Fibrosis and how you can help the cause, visit www.build4life.net or call (021) 4273000 or 086-3863949. Donations can be made through any AIB branch or online to Build4Life Bank Account A/C: 42797173, Sort Code 93-41-43.